AUTOMOBILES KILL FOUR SMALL BOYS

Chauffeur for Son of J. J. Hill, Railroad Builder, Strikes Lad, 5.

CANDY IS LURE FOR ONE Child of 4 Darts Into Car's Path, Clutching Its Nickel.

Four boys were killed in automobile accidents in this city yesterday. Half a dozen other persons were injured. Motor accidents appeared to have increased because of the heavier traffic incident to Armistice Day.

Edward Manning, 5, of 228 East Forty-seventh street, was killed yesterday at noon in front of his home by an automobile driven by Frank Truvelo, chauffeur for James N. Hill, son of the late James J. Hill, railroad builder. The boy with others in the street was playing soldier. Truvelo tried to turn, but was unable to stop the car in time. The police questioned Truvelo, but did not arrest him.

Harry Furman, 4, of 623 East Ninth street was killed at Avenue M street by an automobile driven by Philip Barroway of 228 East Fourth street. The boy's mother and two other children, Eva, 3, and Lillian, two months old, were on Avenue B. The mother gave Harry a nickel to buy candy across the street. The boy ran before Barroway's automobile.

GOLD STAR PIGEONS RALLY TO RED CROSS

Feathered Mothers Do Part in Opening Roll Call Campaign.

Twenty-four gold star mother pigeons, each having sacrificed a member of her feathered family during the world war, assisted in opening the sixth annual roll call of the American Red Cross yesterday morning. The two dozen glossy creatures were released from the top of a skyscraper at 628 Madison avenue, where the drive workers have headquarters, at precisely eleven minutes after 11 o'clock on November 11, Armistice Day, and they flew across the East River, bearing messages of greeting to the Brooklyn chapter of the Red Cross.

The gold star carrier birds are owned by a disabled soldier, who is taking vocational training and receiving compensation through the efforts of the Red Cross. This man trained these pigeons and he also trained the offspring of the gold star mothers, each of whom died a patriot in the service of the Signal Corps in France.

The committee announced gifts for the opening day amounting to $50,000. The largest single donation was $10,000 from Mrs. E. H. Harriman. Another $10,000 has been subscribed in one dollar memberships. Mrs. Whitelaw Reid took out twenty memberships at $25 each for her employees. Dr. John P. Erdman subscribed $2,000.

President Harding has issued a proclamation setting aside to-day as Red Cross Sunday. Virtually all the churches will

34 AT FARMINGDALE SEEK READMISSION

State School to Let 'Regular' Strikers Return, but Puts Ban on Veterans.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. FARMINGDALE, L. I., Nov. 11.—Of the forty regular students at the New York State Institute of Applied Agriculture who struck last week as a protest against the administration of Albert H. Johnson, director of the institute, thirty-four met this afternoon and decided to make application for reinstatement. The six remaining regular students were in New York celebrating Armistice Day, but they are expected to join the others in the move for reinstatement.

Johnson, whose removal was sought by the striking students, set Monday as the date for a hearing of the application for readmission. The disposition of their cases is in his hands, as he has been given absolute authority by the Board of Trustees, and he said to-night that if the students show "the right disposition" he gladly will permit them to come back. The action of the students followed an ultimatum from the Board of Trustees that the students must be back at their classes at noon or be out of Farmingdale on the 1:33 train this afternoon.

The forty veterans, or Federal vocational students, who joined the regular students on the strike, still are out and will not be taken back at Farmingdale.

The terms of three trustees of the institute, Mrs. Robert Platt of Brooklyn, John Angleman of Staten Island and Irvin S. Long of Bay Shore have expired and Gov. Miller has appointed their successors, though their names have not been made public. A new policy, and possibly a new administration, may follow when the new trustees take office.
